Stephanie Chasteen is the K12 outreach coordinator for the Learn More About Climate project out of the University of Colorado. Learn More About Climate aims to make the global local by informing teachers and the public about how the changing climate is affecting the state of Colorado. We have videos and lesson plans on Colorado's changing climate, and are creating teacher/scientist partnerships to help support teachers in this important endeavor. We're pleased to help support a PLC in Colorado! We are also partnering with the Inspiring Climate Education Excellence (ICEE) forums to help encourage broader conversation about teaching about climate. I'm a physicist by training, and have been involved in teacher education, education research, science journalism, and informal science education for many years. You can read more about me (and my sciencegeekgirl blog!) on my website.
